

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for preventing theft of an organization property is disclosed.

- 5           In one embodiment, the method and apparatus authenticates the ownership of an organization property by comparing stored identification information with collected identification information of the organization property. Then the method and apparatus transmits multiple types of network packets containing such authentication result to organization servers via a network.

09586651-060100